V.R.KINGAONKAR, JJ.

DTAED: 13TH APRIL,2006.

P.C.

1. By this petition, the petitioner seeks to challenge the election process of a Co-operative specified society. The main contention is that 81 persons who are not members of the society are shown as voters. In the communication itself it is stated that how these persons are named as voters is the matter of question. Consequently, it appears to be a case of dispute on facts. Apart from that the effective remedy of election petition is available to the petitioner. Hence interference is not necessary. Petition is therefore dismissed.

2. Election petition if filed, should be decided as expeditiously as possible, taking into consideration the terms of the office bearers involved.
